

PROMISING PASSION

Promising Potential is passionate about providing life-changing opportunities for organisations and individuals through our values-aligned and strengths-based recruitment.

Promising Potential takes a strategic approach to partnering with candidates and clients; we gather objective information on employer needs and candidate strengths and values. Our approach combines significant industry, management and recruitment knowledge with objective strength and personality testing.

Promising Potential aims to partner with clients to explore their specific business needs, core values and team culture to ensure that all candidates put forward, are role and culture aligned.

To further enhance client partnership, Promising Potential offers a range of end-to-end business and consulting solutions that can assist with engagement and training of current and potential staff.

These services include but are not limited to: leadership and development coaching (tailored for specific teams and team members), on-boarding, induction and ongoing support and development, performance and change management consulting and team member strengths and engagement benchmarking. If you would like to explore our tailored consulting and recruitment services, please contact us on the details below.

promisingpotential.com.au / connect@promisingpotential.com.au / 0406 535 694 / 0416 121 439

PROMISINGPOTENTIAL